Biography of The Speaker

Rabieh Razzouk joined Florida State University (FSU) in 2003 and he is the Associate Director of the Learning Systems Institute (LSI). In his role, he established a grant support system for one of the largest and most successful research institutes in Florida. He has helped develop more than 500 grant proposals and managed hundreds of projects at the institute. As a faculty member, he has been awarded more than 70 large-scale grants with him as the principal investigator during the last ten years. His proposal success rate is 98%. Razzouk is a Lebanese American who completed his undergraduate studies at the Lebanese American University and his graduate studies at Purdue University.