

Welcome to the new website of the Lebanese University

We are pleased to introduce this new digital space with a modern design that offers you a user-friendly experience with comprehensive information.

The strategic plan developed prior to the launch of our new website took into account local and international standards for design, content, and interactive features, given the importance of the exposure of higher education institutions on the web and its impact on international quality assessment.

Our new website reflects the image of the Lebanese University, its memory and contemporary issues, as well as the voice of its students, professors and employees. As such, the website sections and pages have been diversified to offer you content worthy of the achievements of this national institution that has enriched Lebanon and the world with its best graduates.

With our re-launch, it is necessary to point out that some logistical and technical obstacles were encountered during the data filling process, particularly with the electricity supply shortage and its impact on the network and telecommunication sector. As a result, you will notice that some data is incomplete, a problem that we will remedy as soon as possible.

Your opinion is valuable! Do not hesitate to give us your feedback or inform us of any problem you face during your browsing.
